TELEGRAPHIC

Stanley in Africa.

Boston, Mass., 8.—A letter from Henry M. Stanley, dated July 14th, at Stanley Pool, Congo river, was received by a personal friend in this city. With regard to his sudden departure from Europe, he explained the case as being the sensational and exaggerated telegrams printed in English papers to the effect that one of the stations had been attacked and the chief of the expedition was badly wounded. The chief, who was heartily disliked, was shot in the arm, but no station was attacked. The station was partly broken up by the personal ambition of leading men of the party, each of whom desired to succeed the chief. Stanley thinks the station can be supplied with native help, the number of steamers and boats increased and altogether he considers everything more encouraging. At Leopoldville there are two missions, Baptist and the Livingston Congo mission, and already there are quite imposing buildings.
Stanley says: Since I arrived on the Congo, last December, I have been up as far as the Equator and have established two more stations, and besides discovering another lake Manitoba, have explored for 100 miles or thereabouts, the river known on my map as the Elembien, but which is really the Malurdu. It is not as large as stated in my book, but the size of the Arkansas, deep, broad and very navigable. The big stream, which I expect must drain the largest part of the South Congo basin, must be somewhere higher up. Having become better acquainted with the country I am really struck with the dense population of the Equatorial part of the basin, which, if it were uniform throughout, would give 99,000,000. The number of the products and character of the people are likewise remarkable. Gums, camptor wood and lots of other things would repay transportation, even by the very expensive method present in use. The people are born traders, and are, for Africa, very enterprising and industrious. Stanley tells of his mediation with the tribes who were at war, and who when peace was brought about by his efforts, elected him "father and mother" of their country.FOR PILLOWS AND PICTURES go remarkable discoveries. The fact that Dr. King's New Discovery for startling them to realize their sense of duty, and examine into the mer-
